VETARZO BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.

This remarkable compound, the result of the latest developments and achievements of modern chemistry, pharmacology, and therapeutics, is without equal in all cases of defective nerve power, whether induced by worry, over-work, unhealthy climate, dissipation, excesses, youthful imprudence, or other influences incidental to the wear and tear and haste or overstrain of modern life. Sleeplessness, tremblings, palpitation, nervous dyspepsia, low spirits, mental and bodily prostration, muscular and local weakness, general and nervous debility, faulty nutrition, premature decay or deficiency of the vital forces, impaired vitality, harassing dreams, night disturbances, sudden startings, dimness of sight, defective hearing, loss of memory, inability to perform the various duties of life, or to enjoy its pleasures, restlessness that can settle to nothing, irritability of temper, female complaints, hysteria, painful periods, backache, hearing down sensations, nervous headache, wasting disease, night sweats, and all other phases of brain and nerve exhaustion, are successfully combated by this highly scientific preparation. Bracing up the system generally, it gives tone to the exhausted nerves, arrests all weakening wasting discharges, involuntary losses, &c.; restores the failing energies, and imparts new life and vigour to what had so recently seemed worn out, "used up," and valueless.

VETARZO BLOOD MEDICINE.

Never before was there anything like it, nor can its marvellous properties ever be equalled in all cases of poorness, impurity, or other imperfection of the blood from whatever cause arising. No sooner is it imbibed into the system than it permeates and penetrates to the minutest capillaries, overcoming and expelling the virus of disease, wheresoever and in whatsoever form met with; removing all blotches, pimples, scurf, scurvy, scrofulous and glandular swellings, discolorations, roughness and unsightly patches, &c. Its effects are almost magical in the treatment of gout, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, pains and swellings of the joints, discharges, secondary symptoms, eczema, lepra, psoriasis, bad legs, bad breasts, abscesses, ulcers, sores, goitre or Derbyshire neck, it improves the general health, and quickly removes long-standing bronchitis, asthma, and hacking, straining, spasmodic cough, too often the precursor of consumption.

CAUTION.—Ask for "VETARZO Brain and Nerve Food," or VETARZO Blood Medicine," whichever is required, and see that you get them, as unprincipled vendors often try to palm off inferior preparations (usually their own manufacture), for the sake of extra profit. Price in England, 2/9 and 4/6. Every genuine bottle of these medicines bears the British Government Stamp with the words "VETARZO REMEDIES" impressed thereon, in white letters on a red ground, by direction of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners. Registered Trade Mark "VETARZO." Legal proceedings will be taken against persons pirating.

"COMMON SENSE IN A NUTSHELL."—A NEW medical work on the causes and most scientific and effectual means of self-cure ever discovered for nervous exhaustion, depression of spirits, want of zest and energy, &c., with practical observations on marriage and full directions for removing certain disqualifications that destroy the happiness of wedded life. It also treats on urinary derangements, secondary symptoms, stricture, &c., and no sufferer should fail to avail himself of its contents. Post free six penny stamps (English or Colonial), from THE NEVILL JOHNSON VETARZO REMEDIES Co., 9, Bond Street, Claremont Square, London, W.C., or of Agents for above medicines. Price 10 annas Post Free.

BABY'S AWFUL ITCHING ECZEMA

Sores and Scales All Over Face and Body—Could Not Tell What She Looked Like—Unable to Sleep—Grew Worse Under Doctors.

CURED BY CUTICURA IN ONE MONTH

A grateful mother, in the following letter, tells of another of those marvellous cures by Cuticura: "When my baby was four months old her skin broke out with a humour. I took her to a doctor, who said it was eczema. He gave me medicine to give her, but she kept getting worse all the time. Her little face and body were so covered with sores and large scales you could not tell what she looked like. No child ever had a worse case. Her face was being eaten away, and even her finger nails fell off. Then it itched so she could not sleep, and for many weary nights we could get no rest. At last we got Cuticura Soap and Ointment, first bathing her in warm water with the Soap, and then spreading on the Ointment with soft cloths. I saw a change in a week. The sores began to heal, and she could sleep at night, and in one month she had not one sore on her face or body. Any mother having children with eczema or humours will find a friend in Cuticura Soap and Ointment. (signed) Mrs. Mary Sanders, 709 Spring St., Camden, N. J., Aug. 14, 1904."

INSTANT RELIEF

For Baby and Rest for Tired, and Worn-out Mothers

The foregoing statement justifies the oft-repeated assertion that Cuticura Soap and Ointment afford instant relief, and permit sleep for baby and rest for tired mothers, and points to a speedy, permanent, and economical cure in the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin, and scalp humours of infancy and age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Sole Props.

A FOOTBALL PLAYER

Tells how to 'Keep Going'—

To last long enough to win—that is the great desire and chief necessity of all who engage in strenuous work or pastime, and just how this can be accomplished is explained by Mr. H. Wilson, an ardent football player. At one period Mr. Wilson was so handicapped by ill health that his doctor advised him to give up playing, but fortunately a friend recommended him to try Phosferine, and so beneficial was the Tonic that Mr. Wilson now plays a vigorous game for an hour and a half in the severest weather. Indeed Mr. Wilson says emphatically that Phosferine increased his Staying Power, and so remarkably improved his condition, that he can 'keep going' without the least fatigue. Phosferine starts to reinvigorate and reinforce the entire nerve system from the very first dose and you feel the benefit at once.

Plainly and directly.

Mr. H. Wilson, 25, Wakeman Road, Kensal Rise, W., writes:—"As a footballer for the past 10 years, although not enjoying very good health or energy, I consulted my doctor and he advised me to give up football, but being very fond of the game I felt I could not unless absolutely obliged to. A friend advised me to try Phosferine, and I am now able to turn out in the severest weather and play a solid 90 minutes without feeling the least fatigue, afterwards sitting down to a hearty meal, which I was not able to do until I had commenced taking your valuable Tonic."—February 14, 1906.

The Royal Example.

Phosferine is used by the Royal Families of Europe which in plain language, means that every user of Phosferine knows and feels that the Tonic is commended by the greatest living Physicians.

BOMBAY, FRIDAY, JUNE 29.

The rainy season has so far been all that could be disired throughout the Provinces from which Bombay draws its supplies. The moonsoon current is now said to be weak and a short break in the rains would be welcomed in many districts, as it would give farmers an opportunity of weeding their lands. Heavy rain was reported since our last mail advices in Cutch, Guzurat, Deccan, Khandeish Berars, Central and United Provinces, and the rains have also advanced into the Punjab. All the crops have had a very good start and all reports are very satisfactory.

The state of unrest in Russia is reflected in all the European Bourses, and Consols and French Rentes have declined considerably during the week. The Rupee paper market in India has also declined in sympathy with gilt edged securities in Europe, and the monthly settlement which came off yesterday in Bombay was in favour of the Bears. The new four crore rupee loan is hanging over the market and the date of issue may be expected shortly. The Bank of Bengal showed a rise of 78 lakhs in the cash balance, as published yesterday morning, and the Directors lowered the Official rate of interest on Government paper to 4 per cent per annum. The Bank of Bombay cash balance showed a rise of 19 lakhs in their last cash balance, and no charge was made in the Official rate which remains at 5 per cent per annum, to which it was reduced last week.

The general state of trade in Bombay is dull, as is usual at this time of the year. The long expected improvement in the Import trade in Manchester goods is still postponed, notwithstanding the good rain which has been experienced up-country. Stocks are heavy, shipments en route are also large, and dealers do not find the offtake satisfactory. In the export trade, cotton still continues to go forward in moderate quantities to Europe, but in seeds, which usually form the bulk of the ships cargoes, business is almost at a standstill, and steamers on the berth find great difficulty in completing their loading. Freight is consequently dull and depressed for near shipments, though some lines are reported to have been booked from January to May 1907 at about 13 s. S.W.C.

COTTON.

The Spot market in America has been fairly steady at the decline recorded last mail throughout the week, while the difference in July futures between New York and New Orleans has further widened to 64 points, as reported to-day. Reports of the new crop remain very satisfactory as beneficial rains are advised throughout the Cotton Belt. Advices received by to-day's inward mail show that considerable dissatisfaction is expressed at the Agricultural Bureau report published in Washington on the 4th instant, both with regard to the acreage and the condition. We drew attention at the time to the low figure of acreage given by the Bureau, stating that the general ideas pointed to 30,000,000 acres against 28,686,000 given by the Bureau, and Messrs Nicll Bros, estimates published the following week, confirmed the higher acreage named. There is no doubt a critical time has now arrived in the growth of the crop. Light rains interspersed with sunshine should bring out a record outturn, but heavy rain and cloudy weather would cause rust and decayed bolls. The future of the market is now hanging in the balance, entirely dependant on the weather for the result. A crop of about 12,000,000 bales is wanted by the trade and so far everything points to a much larger figure than this.

The following are the daily closing quotations for Spot Middling Americans in Liverpool and New York since our last report :

There is a little change to record in the position of the market in Bombay. Prices in some cases are a trifle lower and with the good rain throughout the growing districts, some dealers are showing more anxiety to get rid of their stocks. But there is still a considerable quantity of bales held off the market on account of up-country dealers, who are averse to sell at current rates, as they still look forward to a re-action in the market and a return to the quotations current two or three months ago, when the cotton was poured into Bombay and the natural decline in prices was caused.

In new crops quotations are Rs. 1 to 2, lower than last week. It is reported that export houses are good sellers and that some business was put through with the bezzar in Oomra discriptions at about our quotations. Japan shippers are also reported to have purchased some lines for December-January delivery from European houses.

EXCHANGE.

Sterling exchange ruled quiet at the commencement of the week, but there was a fair show of bills on the basis of 1s 4 3-16d 3 months sight. But when the rate was raised to 1-47-32 and for Bank demand to 1-41-32, the public bought but did not sell, and it looks as if we shall drop back to the old level for bills again. Money is very easy as is shown by there being no telegraphic transfers applied for on Wednesday. July looks like being a quiet month in the Exchange market unless outside places produce bills freely.

GAINED 17LBS,

IN WEIGHT SINCE USING DOAN'S BACKACHE KIDNEY PILLS,

21, Moore's Lane.

Standish, near Wigan, England,

Yours Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have been worth their weight in gold to me. Before using them I had long been a sufferer with kidney complaint. The slightest cold or chill told on my kidneys, rendering their action irregular and unnatural. The secretions were thick, and contained a white chalky sediment after standing. At times the water was scarce, and painful in passing; frequently, too, I have been compelled to leave my bed several times during the night.

Sometimes on rising in the mornings I scarcely dared to draw my breath, because of the awful stabbing pain in the back. I got reduced to a very low state, and though I tried many medicines, nothing relieved me except your pills.

I am sure you will share my joy when I tell you that I have been splendidly cured by Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. I get up in the mornings now without feeling the slightest pain in my back; and I have gained 17 lbs in weight. I owe my splendid cure to Doan's Pills, and I shall be only too glad to recommend them.

Believe me, yours faithfully,

(Signed) J. DANIELS.

Some months later our representative had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Daniels, who declared himself to be still enjoying good health and freedom from kidney complaint.

When the kidneys are well, they filter out from 3 lbs. to 4 lbs. of watery waste (urine) every day. You can soon tell when this work is not being properly done, because the impurities will cause urinary disorders, gravel, pain in the back and loins, dizzy spells; every change of the weather will affect you making you feel miserable, weak and nervous; watery swellings may appear beneath the eyes or in the ankles, the sight will be blurred.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills assist in filtering out the poisonous waste, by reviving the activity of the kidneys and restoring a natural action to the connective organism. You will then feel stronger and better in every way, and won't be likely to catch colds or chills.

Doan's Backche Kidney Pill are Rs. 2 a box, or 6 boxes for Rs. 10. Of all chemists and druggists, or direct from the proprietors, the Foster-McClellan Co., 8, Wells Street, Oxford Street, London, England, post free on receipt of price.

APPORTIONMENT OF SALVAGE AWARDS.

The subject of the apportionment of Salvage Awards in so far as Officers of merchant vessels are concerned has occupi d the attention of the Merchant Service Guild for the past ten years, and on various occasions representations have been addressed by that body to His Majesty's Judges urging that the Officers were treated in this respect in a most inequitable manner. The apportionment has invariably been made according to rating and whilst the brunt of salvage work has fallen upon the marine executive officers, they through being in receipt of less pay, have been awarded a smaller share of salvage than others serving under them. For instance it has frequently occurred that a Chief Officer has received an equivalent share to a Third Engineer, whilst Doctors, Cooks, Stewards, and others who have been onlookers more than anything else, have fared better in the way of salvage than have the Officers. Arising out of the case of the salvage award to the s. s. Ludgen the Guild made further representations to His Majesty's Judges at the end of January last. The replies which were received were of a sympathetic nature and it was stated that suggestions as to a fairer method of apportionment would be consider. This was promptly complied with by the Guild with the result that His Majesty's Judges have now departed from the original method of apportionment for in the last four cases where awards have been made in the Admiralty Court the Judge has laid it down that the Chief Second, and Third Officers shall receive shares equivalent to the chief, second, and Third Engineers respectively. As illustrating how much the officers of merchant vessels will benefit by this new departure, it may be mentioned that one of the members of the Guild the chief Officer of the s. s Ecolian will for salvage services rendered, receive one-third more than he would have b en given under the original method of apportionment and in addition to this he receives an additional half share for boat service in carrying out the salvage operations. Besides laying the matter before His Majesty's Judges, the Guild have made representations to the Shipowners's organisations throughout the Kingdom.

A well-known shipowner, Mr. D. Stephens, raised the point at a meeting of the North of England Steamship owners' Association. By a curious coincidence this meeting took place on the same day as the Judge altered the previous method of apportionment in the High Court, and it was decided that the individual shipowning members of that association should be recommended to include a Clause in the Articles of Agreement of their ships specifying that the Officers in cases of salvage should be treated in an exactly similar manner to that decided upon by the Judges of the Admiralty Court. This action of the North of England Steamship Owners, Association was brought by the Guild before the other shipowner's societies with a very satisfactory result.

The Hartlepool Shipowners, Society have expressed their sympathy with the views of the Guild and are issuing a circular to the various firms in membership recommending their adoption of a Clause similar to that of the North of England Steamship Owners Association. The Cardiff Incorporated Shipowners' Association have informed the Guild that their suggestion has been adopted and a circular letter to that effect is being forwarded to each of their shipowning members whilst a communication has just been received from the General Shipowners Society London, stating that they are taking similar action. The other Shipowning organisations have the matter under their notice with every probability of favourable consideration, and the improvements which have now been secured have given great satisfaction to all officers of merchant ships.

THE BIRTHDAY HONOURS.

SANTA CLAUS distributes his favours with such magnanimity that no one who can reasonably expect a seasonable gift is disappointed. The blind angel, or mischievous sprite, who scatters about the Indian honours does not seem to exercise more than a suspicion of discrimination—or else he is a bad shot. He does not seem to mind whom he misses so long as he hits some one whose record will furnish him with the least excuse. In Bombay we are ready to admit his hits are unobjectionable. But his misses are many and important. The missed may perhaps take unction to their souls that it is a great distinction to escape decoration, but even the most radical, who found his name in the Honours' List, would most probably reflect : "Ah, well ; perhaps his Majesty might be inclined to doubt my loyalty if I refuse to accept the thing, so I had better accept and say nothing of undesired honours being forced upon one." Those who may have expected a little trinket of some kind for the left breast and have been disappointed may console themselves with the knowledge that they have been overlooked in good company and that their turn may come again in the ordinary course of events. Still it is hard on a man who has been working for a decoration year after year to be continually passed over ; none the less so since his friends sympathise with him over the injustice with which he has been treated—shrugging afterwards over the inordinate vanity of the man who believed he could by any chance be selected for an honour. Nevertheless men in India have received decorations for very little, very little, indeed ; while others who have served the public faithfully, untiringly and disinterestedly for years are permitted to look for their reward where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, nor thieves break through and steal.

THE VOLUNTEER PROBLEM.

"LET us no longer stumble blindly along the path of military waste and inefficiency as heretofore, but set our house in order, scientifically and soberly, believing that each part of our army can be made a perfectly tempered weapon for the particular work which may be assigned to it." This appeal is addressed to our citizen soldiers by a military expert who hopes much from them, and desires the officers particularly to make themselves capable soldiers and leaders of men, believing, as he does, that all the other fighting virtues of a military body follow this trust—if the men trust their officers they trust themselves and each other because they know that each man's confidence is mutual and that all are animated by a single impulse. That the volunteer force has improved of late admits of very little doubt, and much more is to be expected of it, especially as, since the war, the force has been taken seriously—as a real reserve; not "as an inchoate body whose functions nobody appears able to define." But we are asked to believe that the American Volunteer begins practically where ours leave off. The great populations of our towns have need to possess one—and one only—of the qualities that go to make up a soldier, namely physical courage, a quality it is true, without which all others are useless, but which is common to all, or almost all the nations of the earth, and which by itself is of little value." But the townspeople are pronounced to be lacking in resource, quite unused to firearms and have never been on horse-back in their lives. The spirit which animates them is one impatient of discipline or restraint. They do not take volunteering seriously. Yet there are exceptions and our expert is forced to admit that he has met many who are animated by a fine spirit of loyalty to King and Country, and who spend a considerable amount of time and money in doing all they can to perfect themselves in the military art. But these are declared to be in a minority—a minority so small that it does not appreciably leaven the mass.

We agree with the expert in hoping to find many volunteers and efficient ones in the public schools. A public school is one of the few places left where discipline and obedience are still taught and gladly practised. Unfortunately for discipline very few indeed of the officers have a working knowledge of the duties that would be required of them in the field. It is recognised that they learn a certain amount of barrack square drill—that is some volunteer officers do ; not all. And we fully concur in the remark that though in these democratic days it may be unpalatable to many people, yet it is strictly true, that except in the rarest instances the Englishman will only obey implicitly that man who is what is generally called a gentleman, and resents the orders of a man of his own or inferior social rank. In many volunteer corps—even those which are looked upon as crack corps there are numbers of men who will put in not more than the minimum total of drill to qualify for the grant. Such men, it is found, often hardly know another soul in their company and are even unacquainted with their sergeant or the lieutenant of their half company. Such men are useless and the commanding officer would do well to get rid of them but he cannot afford to do this considering that to do so would involve a loss of grant. The critic who is thus severe on the men, and the junior officers is no less candid in his treatment of the volunteer commandant. He considers that the colonel himself is invariably patriotic and keen, or he would be where he is, but the principal duty of the adjutant, the one regular officer of the battalion, is too often only to save the untrained colonel from making a fool of himself. We would not go so far as to endorse his view that our volunteer force is absolutely useless for the purpose for which it is presumably intended—particularly if he desires to include the Indian volunteers in his condemnation. But much remains to be done both with regard to the training of officers and men before the volunteers as a body can take their places with the line battalion of their own territorial regiments without weakening them and detracting from the efficiency of a brigade.

We are glad to find that so destructive a critic has a remedy to suggest. In reply to his own question : What can be done? he replies : In the first place it will be useful to have as many more or less trained men as possible, who can be sent to any part of the world to fill up the gaps in the regular battalions caused by disease or wounds. These men, with their volunteer officers, enrolled under the liability to be sent abroad, should be formed into volunteer reserve battalions or group of regular battalions. Their training need not be very different from that which now obtains, except in the matter of shooting, which should be especially studied, but their physique would have to be considerably above the present standard. So far good, but to seek at once to improve the physique of the volunteer battalions would be to shoot out of them smart and promising youths, who caught young eventually make the most efficient volunteers. Still some remedy for this might be possible. But meantime attention is to be paid to volunteer officers—who must train themselves rather than their men. There should be a regular non-commissioned instructor for each company, who as his men were drafted off would fill up the ranks by training the recruits. This military reformer, who remains anonymous draws many lessons for our delectation from the volunteers of the United States, and shows how in the Civil War both sides suffered alternately from the incapacity of their officers. The adequate training of officers and men presents very many difficulties—more numerous in some localities than in others. It is felt that citizen soldiers, generally speaking, give up as much of their time as they can be expected to. But the mistake lies in the devotion of too large a proportion of their time to barrack-square drill The institution of week-end camps with Sunday afternoon drill is advocated, field-exercises and open-air movements—the proposed utilisation of Sunday being justified by the fact that our forefathers practised the long bow on the Sabbath, and thought no shame, knowing full well that "one of the most holy of all tasks is the safe-keeping of their native land." It will be a long time yet before the nation will look upon Sunday volunteering with a friendly eye. Still in the long list of suggestions and the points in the present system indicated as weak, there is opened up a new discussion on the subject, the result of which may possibly be the extensive improvement of the volunteer auxiliary and its better qualification for the discharge of the duties which may one day be required of them.

SIR EDWARD CLARKE AND THE CITY.

A FEW weeks ago, when Sir Edward Clarke returned to England from his holiday in the Mediterranean, to be faced with the letter of Sir John Pulesston, on behalf of the City Conservative Association, we prognosticated that if Sir Edward adequately appreciated the untenableness of his position as a member for the City of London, he would retire, and in doing so, lay down politics for good and all. That Sir Edward has now done. He has himself definitely announced the end of his political career, and we congratulate him on coming to so wise a decision. Our opinion that he would thus peacefully retire from the representation of the City was not by any means universally shared at Home. "Public Opinion," for instance, in an open letter to Sir Edward in the worst possible taste, says, "That you will adopt the dignified line and retire is not likely. You will stand before your accusers with your hands raised to the lapels of your immaculate grey frock coat, and you will bring all your forensic skill to bear to prove that not you but they are at fault. But if I know the City there will be only one person in the room convinced that you are a much-wronged patriot : that person will be yourself. You will at least have the consolation of knowing that you are assured of the sympathy of certain Rip Van Winkles, and of the enemies of the party to which you claim to belong." With such vulgar tirades as this we have no sympathy, in spite of our conviction that as soon as Sir Edward Clarke realised how entirely out of touch with his constituents he was he would gracefully retire. At the same time we firmly believe that Sir Edward has no one but himself to thank for his present predicament. It was our pleasure a year or so ago to discuss to an admirable speech by Sir Edward on Tariff Reform. When it is mentioned that the great lawyer was on the same platform with Mr. Henry Chaplin it will easily be seen that no doubt could then have been entertained as to Sir Edward's attitude towards Tariff Reform. The surprise of everyone, therefore, when Sir Edward, in his first speech in the present Parliament, proceeded to "it" and "but" upon this vital subject, was great, and it is not to be wondered at that his constituents promptly took firm and decisive action to bring Sir Edward "on the carpet." The secret of Sir Edward's disappointment in the City is not hard to discover. There is no doubt that concerning Tariff Reform Sir Edward is not a "whole-hogger." He is a man of strong convictions, and those convictions are to be admired and not scoffed at. He believes something in the nature of Fiscal Reform should be done. Who that has seriously studied the secret of Germany's modern commercial rise can have any doubt of that? But Sir Edward does not see his way to go the racket of adopting the Tariff Reform League's programme in its entirety, and like a brave man, he said so. But he made this plain when it was too late. And why? Because, when invited, as a Fiscal Reformer!, to stand for the City, in which he was born and bred, and honoured as few living men are, he could not resist the temptation once again to enter Parliament, being, as it was, and as he has so often said, the culminating point of his ambition to be "Member for the City." Sir Edward erred in thus succumbing to this ambition : gratified, as it was under false pretences, on the other hand, as soon as opportunity offered, he announced his real opinions in the House of Commons. He might, had he been a man of less sturdy calibre, have sat still and said nothing, and enjoyed his seat in the House probably till the end of his life. But he spoke up like a man, and he has had nothing but opprobium for his outspokenness. Sir Edward has, of course, the tearful sympathy of the "Daily News" and the Birrelliginists, and our only fear is now that he will be so far beguiled by Radical handshakes that he may succumb to the blandishments of the present Government and stand for a Radical seat when a vacancy occurs. We do not think he will. We should be sorry to see Sir Edward Clarke, the sage, strong-minded man of the world, in the same boat with Mr. Winston Churchill. A man can play the opportunist when scarcely out of knickerbockers, because the public memory is short, and Time may cast its oblivion over his chicanery. But when a man of established reputation is bordering on the sere and yellow leaf he can no longer hope that time will have any saving graces for him. We forget and forgive the follies of youth ; but the indiscretions of age are unforgettable. Nothing that has transpired in his political career can affect Sir Edward's reputation as the most remarkable lawyer of the time. Without the influence of birth or wealth Sir Edward has risen to be the greatest advocate at the Bar. More we need not say, except to hope that he will enjoy a contemplative retirement for many years, and that in mentally summing-up those who have caused his departure from the City he will "think the best of them, not the worst."

LADY LAWLEY is not expected to arrive in India before November next.

H. M. S. Fox, under the Command of Captain J. B. Eustace, R.N., sailed on Thursday evening for Colombo.

MR. R. B. TAYLOR has won the Golf Championship of Ceylon by 6 up and 5, his opponent being Mr. Stephen Brown.

THE P. and O. Company's s. s. Egypt with the homeward Mails of the 23rd instant arrived at Aden at 7 p.m. on Thursday.

THE P. and O. s. s. Moldavia with the China Mails left Colombo, June 28th and is expected to arrive in Bombay at daylight on Sunday.

THE East Indian Railway have not yet worked down to their minimum rate for coal, but the new reduced tariff will be introduced on the 1st November, when the grand chord line is opened. This should benefit up-country factories.

AMONG the passengers who arrived in Bombay yesterday, by the P. and O. Co's. Mail steamer, Peninsular, were :—Professor J. A. Cunningham, Major L. M. R. Deas, Mr. Rustom Pestonjee Jehangir and Commander W. B. Beauchamp.

THE experiments with flag seed in India will be on a modest scale to begin with, but if success is gained every encouragement will be given to zamindars and others to cultivate the plant on a large scale. It is believed that good varieties can be acclimatised, just as Egyptian cotton has been in Sind.

THE approximate statement of traffic of the Barsi Light Railway Company, limited, (43 miles open) for the week ending 16th June, 1906, amounted to Rs. 3,443, being a decrease of Rs. 591 on the corresponding week of last year. The total earnings from 1st January to 16th June 1906, were Rs. 85,551 being a decrease of Rs. 44,077.

FROM the 16th to the 22nd instant, 3 European, 9 East Indians, 20 Native Christians, 281 Hindus, and 51 Mahomedans died within limits of Madras, making a total of 364. The death-rate was 37·1 per mille, the mean for the ten previous years being 35·2. The deaths are thus classified :—Cholera 2, small-pox 3, fevers 89, bowel-complaints 52, and other causes 218.

WE learn from the Annual Report of the Board of Scientific Advice for India that a number of cases from Burma, Madras, etc., were collected. Some of these are of great botanic interest, a specimen from South Coimbatore having proved to be Calamus Rheedei, a species hitherto only known from Rheede's figure. At the suggestion of Sir Dietrich Brandis, duplicates of the botanical specimens are being submitted to Dr. Beccari, of Florence, for his opinion.

IT is a noticeable fact that Hamburg steamers at Calcutta are finding less difficulty in securing cargo than those for London and Liverpool ; and according to rates in the Army List, also, by the Indian Army List 1904, H S Penson is stated to be in India whereas since 1899 he has been in England and is still drawing his pension in this country.

Mr. Morley : A parchment certificate of discharge is now given to warrant officers of Indian Army Departments on retirement, but a certificate of service and character would be issued on application. The possession of such a certificate would not affect the eligibility of a widow to pension, nor would it affect her claim to a passage to India. Under the regulations in force when Sub-Conductor Penson was promoted to warrant rank, a non-commissioned officer was required to have at least 18 years' service to qualify for the medal for long service and good conduct. Not only was Penson short of this period by four days when promoted to sub conductor, but his promotion was subsequently antedated nearly two years, with corresponding increase of pay.

Sub-Conductor H. J. Penson was placed on the pension establishment in this country on account of ill-health on January 20, 1901 after two years' absence from duty. The Government of India, not knowing that he had been pensioned, shortly afterwards notified his promotion to conductor, which reached him at a date subsequent to his retirement. This led to a mistake being made in the Indian Army List which, however, was pointed out to the Government of India in May 1904 and the right was corrected in the next issue of the Indian Army List. There is no reason to suppose that the pension as conductor has been drawn in India, and the word India against Sub-Conductor Penson's name in the Indian Army List is an error which will be pointed out to the Government of India.

HOURS OF WORK IN FACTORIES IN BOMBAY.

On Tuesday, June 26 Mr. Ashley asked the Secretary of State for India : If he has received the reports called for from the local governments in India as to the proposed limitation of the hours of work in the cotton factories of Bombay and neighbourhood ; and, if so, can he state what steps have been decided on.

Mr John Ellis said that the local governments in India were still actively engaged in the inquiry as to the proper and limitation of the hours of work in the textile factories of Bombay, but were not yet in a position to report.

GERMANY AND THE PERSIAN GULF.

Mr. Rees asked the Secretary for Foreign affairs whether the Government has received any official information that the German Embassy in Constantinople had made overtures to the Porte for the purchase or lease of an island or station in the Persian Gulf ; whether they have been in communication between the German Government and that of Persia for a similar purpose and whether they were officially aware of any application by Germany for a concession of a railway from Bagdad to Khanakin in the Persian frontier.

Mr. Runciman : I have no official information which I can give the hon. member on the subject.

EQUALISATION OF PENSIONS DRAWN IN INDIA AND ENGLAND.

Mr. Hart-davies asked the Secretary of State for India : Whether in view of the fact that in the Bombay and Bengal Presidencies, daughters of deceased members of the Indian Civil Service draw as pensions 100l. a year if living in England and 90l. a month, which amounts to 69l. a year, if living in India, and that the difference is due to the fact that at the time this arrangement was made the rupee was worth about 2s. 3d., and whether now that the value of the rupee is only 1s 4d he will take such measures to equalise the pensions drawn in India and those drawn in England.

Mr. Morley : The rates of pension drawn from the Bombay and Bengal Civil Funds by the children of subscribers resident in India and in England respectively were fixed by the subscribers, and no alteration in either rate was suggested when the funds were transferred to Government, though the rate of exchange had then fallen to about 1s. 8d. The funds have no surplus assets, and the increase in the rupee value of pensions paid in England has already thrown a charge on the revenues of India. I am not prepared further to increase this charge by raising the rates of pension payable in India.

THE INDIAN BUDGET.

Mr. Herbert Roberts asked the Secretary of State for India : Whether he is in a position to state when the Indian Budget will be discussed.

Mr Morley. I hope to state the date in a day or two. I will give full notice.

THE VIRAMGAM-MALIA RAILWAY.

On Thursday, June 14 Mr Weir asked the Secretary of State for India : Whether he is aware that the Government of India in the programme of railway construction for the year 1905-06 included an allotment of six lacs for a line from Viramgam to Malia, which forms part of a projected connection with Sind through Cutch ; and in view of the fact that the Cutchi inhabitants of Bombay, the Bombay Chamber of Commerce, the Karachee Chamber of Commerce, and the municipality of Hyderabad, have sent forward petitions urging that in the public interest the line should pass through Cutch, will he state whether the objections raised by the Rao of Cutch have yet been considered ; and, if so, with what result.

Mr. Morley : The estimates for the construction of the Viramgam-Malia line were sanctioned by the Secretary of State last year and the allotment was, as stated in the question, included in the programme for 1905-06, but no expenditure was incurred on it during that year. The allotment for the Bombay-Sind connection in the railway programme for 1906-1907 is three lacs. As I stated in reply to a question on May 2 last, a reconnaissance of alternative routes to the north and south of the Runn has been sanctioned. I understand that when this reconnaissance has been carried out the question of the route will be considered.

THE SEPARATION OF JUDICIAL FROM EXECUTIVE FUNCTIONS.

Sir Henry Cotton asked the Secretary of State for India whether his attention had been called to the fact that, as reported in the last Administration Report of the Baroda State the complete separation of judicial from executive functions had been effected without any practical difficulty in that State ; and whether he will bear what has been done in that State in mind in considering the long pending memorial from the late Lord Hobhouse and others urging the separation of the exercise of these functions by the same officer in the advanced districts of British India.

Mr. Morley : I understand that the change of system referred to in the question was introduced in the Baroda State only a year ago. When the time comes, it will, of course, be impossible to overlook the working of the experiment there in arriving at the conclusion upon the memorial mentioned in the question.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

THE THIBETAN INDEMNITY.

IN the House of Commons on Monday June 11, Sir Henry Cotton asked the Secretary of State for India : Weather the first instalment of the Tibetan indemnity due on Jan. 1 has now been paid, and, if so when and where ; whether if paid, the amount is 833,000 rs. instead of 100,000 rs., which is the instalment due under the Tibetan agreement of Sept. 7, 1904 ; whether this amount has been paid or is guaranteed by the Chinese Government ; whether it is now proposed to receive payment of the indemnity in three annual instalments instead of 25, as was originally intended ; and whether the other conditions of the Convention of Sept. 7 having been duly complied with by the Tibetans, the British occupation of the Chumbi Valley will cease after the payment of three instalments of the indemnity.

Mr. Morley : A first instalment of the Tibetan indemnity, amounting to 8,33,333rs., was paid to the Accountant-General of Bengal at Calcutta by the Soohung Shape on May 29. It is understood that the money has been supplied to the Tibetan Government by the Chinese Government. His Majesty's Government have agreed to accept the indemnity in three instalments of 8,33 333 rs. each. It has always been the intention that the occupation of the Chumbi Valley should cease after three years, provided the instalments of the indemnity have been paid and other conditions of the convention complied with.

REVIEW AT POONA.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, JUNE 29.

His Majesty the King-Emperor's birthday was ly celebrated in Poona, this morning, when the ops in Poona and Kirkee paraded as strong as ible in the general Parade ground, and almost Poona was out to witness the brilliant spectacle. he weather was glorious, but the rain over night d softened the Parade ground to a somewhat mfortable extent. The troops were on the ground half past seven, and by 8 o'clock they were wn up in double line facing east, the tartan and ts of the Highlanders being picturesquely in contrast with the rest of the khaki-clad troops. The fferent corps on parade included the 19th, 32nd, rd and 47th Batteries of Royal Field Artillery, all w arrivals, the 33rd (Q. O.) Cavalry, the Mounted of Her, the 2nd Highlanders, 3rd Sappers and ners, 21st Pioneers, 108th Pioneers, 9th Bengal Infantry and 114th Mahrat as. The Lancashire Regiment being under canvas Kirkee, also paraded, there. They had also included two Infantry Brigades. The first, under Lieut.-Colonel Paterson consisted of the Argyll and Southerland Highlanders and the 94th Russels Infantry. The Second under Lieut.-Colonel Cabusso, comprised the 87th Pioneers, 114th Mahrattas, and 121st Pioneers. The second line was formed by the Royal Field Artillery, the 33rd Cavalry, the Mounted Infantry, and 3rd Sappers and Miners. The Bands were massed in rear of the centre of the first line. Major-General G. L. R. Richardson, C. B., C. S. I., C. I. E., commanding the 6th (Poona) Division, accompanied by Lieut.-Colonel H. S. Fitz-Gerald, A. A. G., Major Doyson, D. A. A. G., and two A. D. C., was on the ground at 8 a.m., and having ridden down the line, took up his position at the saluting Base. Then came the actual significance of the parade. The Royal salute and the feu-de-jois proclaimed it. The Battery on the right of the first line opened fire with eleven rounds. The first gun having boomed as the flag was hoisted. There the Bands struck up the first bars of the National Anthem, followed by the first round of the Infantry feu-de-joie. Another ten guns went off and another battle of the feu-de-joie and finally ten more guns and the third round of the feu-de-joie the intervals being punctuated by the playing of the National Anthem. Bayonets were then fixed and three very hearty cheers were given for His Majesty in response of the Command from the General The Battery on the right now limbered up and moved to a position on the 2nd line, and the rest of the troops formed up to march past.General and Staff having taken up their position at the Flag Staff. The first to march was the 33rd Cavalry in Command of Lieut-Colonel Grantham who had on his side the veteran and distinguished bugler of the Indian Army. Then followed the four Batteries of Artillery, the mounted Infantry, and the Sappers and Miners, all looking fit for any service under the sun. The Infantry columns were headed by the Native Infantry and fronted by that handsome regiment the 93rd Highlanders led by Lieut-Colonel Stanley Paterson, and all the subjects of the King-Emperor was at on looked their march-past were decidedly proud at the fine appearances of their splendid battalions. The Cavalry and Artillery went by again at the trot and then a hitchless review terminated.

OF FIGERY SPORT CURTAILED.

LONDON, JUNE 28.

The four Egyptians who were sentenced to death for the Tantah outrage were hanged to-day and six flogged.

Sir E Grey in the Commons promised to forbid officers pigeon shooting in Egypt and enquire into the law about flogging.

On June 13 a party of British officers were shooting wild pigeons at a village near Tantah, some distance north of Cairo, when a dispute arose with the fellaheen, who wished to stop the sport. The Egyptians attacked the officers with bludgeons, and a hand-to-hand combat ensued, in the course of which Captain S. C. Bull, of the Inniskilling Dragoons, was killed, and Major Pine Coffin, of the North Lancashire Regiment and Commandant of the Mounted Infantry, and Lieutenant S. G. Smithwick, of the Dublin Fusiliers, were wounded. The dispute occurred during an interval in manoeuvres of the Mounted Infantry. Several natives were, it is reported, seriously injured.

The Court of Inquiry consisted of Sir Malcolm M'Ilwrath, Judicial Adviser to the Khedive, one English Judge of the Native Appeal Court, and the Egyptian President of the Native Court of First Instance, with an officer of the Army of Occupation acting as Judge Advocate.

ISOLATED SIMLA.

No Trains for Three Days.

MAILS CARRIED THROUGH.

WEATHER-BOUND OFFICERS ON LEAVE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, JUNE 29.

The rain has ceased for the present and the weather looks like clearing. The total rainfall from midnight on Saturday the 23rd to 8 a.m. on Friday the 29th was 15 82 inches. Mr. Maxwell, Post Master General of the Punjab, on the first intimation of the road being blocked, went down to get the English Mail through. Owing to his exertions the foreign mail was received in Kalka in time for the train. News from Kalka says that the road between Sogri and the Solan Brewery, a distance of seventeen miles, is very bad indeed and it is necessary to tranship five times. The railway also is badly interrupted, but all the bridges are intact and the interruptions are due to the landslips from above, not to breaks in the line itself. No trains ran yesterday and none will be able to run to-day or to-morrow. There are numerous officers, whose leave expires on July 1st, who are weather bound here and unable to leave the station, among others, several students of the Deolali Staff College, which reopens on July 2nd.

The most recent inspections of the Simla-Kalka line show that two large wash-outs have been produced by the rain which will require a considerable time to repair, in addition one bridge has been carried away and the foundations of another have been injured. Hence no trains will be able to pass for a week at least. Regarding the tonga road the accounts state that this is more or less clear up the Solan and instruction have been issued that as many passengers as possible should be carried up to that point, but after that their journey onward will depend on their own inclinations and the future weather.

The mails are coming in about six to eight hours late, but no passengers have entered or left Simla since yesterday morning, both yesterday's up trains having stopped at Barogh.

The Satpura line in the Central Provinces has been breached by heavy rain, but communication has been restored.

Owing to the landslip, the mail from Simla, which were due here on (Thursday) at 3 o'clock by the Punjab mail train, has been diverted, and will arrive in Bombay to-day (Saturday) morning by the Ahmedabad rail via the B. B. & C. I. Railway. The English mail from Simla, which, instead of arriving by the Punjab special, which is due here at noon, will arrive by the ordinary Punjab mail due here at 1-20 to-day.

THE KING AT ST. PAUL'S.

Order of St. Michael and St. George.

SPLENDID CEREMONIAL.

SIR ROBERT HERBERT builded better than he knew when he set afoot the scheme which reached fulfilment on June 12. In itself, the setting apart of a chapel for the knights and Companions of one of our Orders may have seemed a small thing—indeed we have no hesitation in saying that the splendour and significance of the great ceremony yesterday must have come as a surprise and with new and unexpected force to those who were present. For, as it turned out, this was no mere housing of a company of well-born knights ; no mere social demonstration set about with all the colour and circumstance of chivalry. It was nothing less than the solemn committal to the Cathedral Church of the metropolis of the British Empire of all that the Empire means—its principles its aspiration its awful responsibilities its strength its hopes nay, also its labours and its drudgeries its failures, misunderstandings rebuffs, the misinterpretation which may be its lot abroad, the pretty jealousies and misuses of its greatness that from time to time must inevitably find a way into so vast a political engine. Still whatever can be said to the contrary the Empire stands for modern civilisation and the march of Christianity in the world to-day, and the solemn consecration of its famous Imperial order in St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday served to its depths the heart of a notable congregation. Those present were taking part in a great commemoration of the past, and an even greater vow for the future, and the significance of the occasion escaped not the shallowest of those who assisted at it.

St. Paul's is the home of Imperial emotion. It is the fit and accepted place in which from time to time the chiefs of this country are solemnly reviewed the vast spaces and murmuring curves of Wren's triumphant building have responded, and responded alone, to the joys and sorrows of the English nation for 200 years. It may be the funeral of a great hero. It may be the celebration of a jubilee. It may be a thanksgiving for the making of a peace. It may be a day of national humiliation or, again, it may be such an occasion as yesterday, a great review of a national purpose—whatever be the occasion, St. Paul's in the past has always provided the scene, and in the future must, even by virtue of its new chapel, be associated even more and more with the days of wealth or tribulation which the future holds for the Empire.

But great as is the record of the Cathedral, seldom has the chord of national achievement and national responsibility been more fully or more reverently struck than during this Dedication service. Nothing was wanting to complete the significance of the occasion. A bright, sunny day outside, with just enough of a fall stir the yellow leaves of the plane-trees in the churchyard, and set the lazy battalions of flags rolling luxuriously above the housetops ; inside, beneath the vague, grey vaults, a pleasant quietness, just tinged with the muffled roar of London that never completely dies away. Great airy buttresses of smilt motes slanted down from the southern windows, and through the open western doors the covered way of scarlet and white gave the noonday glare. Beneath the dome a wide central passage was kept by the Yeomen of the Guard their quaint appeal setting the clock back by just those centuries that have intervened between to-day and the consecration of the last chapel of a knightly Order. The scarlet of a line of Grenadiers continued the scheme of colour down to the western doors.

On either side, between the pillars, the nave and rounds were gay with the summer silks and laces of invited guests, sisters, wives and friends of the members of the Order. Here and there among them the red of a uniform sprang out in high and somewhat disordant relief, but the sunniness of the day did much to reconcile the many hues. Farther to the east, a close set double square of seats marked the space reserved for the Companions. The Knights Commanders were seated in the choir, and above them Grinling Gibbons stalls yawned empty, waiting for the arrival of the "Grand Crosses." These latter, on the other end of the church, awaited the arrival of the King.

Almost as noon struck, a hurricane of cheering and the subdued cadence of a brass band outside announced the arrival of his Majesty. There was no delay ; a short procession was formed of the Bishop of London, the Dean, Archdeacon Sinclair, and the suffragan bishops of the diocese, who, in ceremonial copes, escorted the King to his stall in the newly decorated and gilted home of the Order. A full description of this ingenious work appeared in our columns the dedication of the chapel was performed by the Bishop of London, assisted by Bishop Montgomery, the Prelate of the Order, the Dean, and four of the Cathedral Canons. This part of the service lasted only five minutes. The collect or prayer was exceedingly worded and struck the true note of the occasion. It was, indeed, the ordaining of "a spiritual dwelling-place for these, our brethren, who have served our Lord the King in all parts of his dominions," and the significance of the festival was kept in view from out-set of the service to the other. Immediately afterwards the procession was reformed and the Knights Grand Cross, each wrapped in his rich Saxon blue mantle, two and two preceded the King to the chair of honour which had been prepared on the northern side of the high altar. Directly in front of them again the choristers, attended on either side by the banksmen of the Grenadier Guards moved to their seats in the choir, singing the hymn "for all the saints who from their labours rest." The Lord Mayor of London in his full robes of crimson velvet and ermine, and duly attended by the Sheriffs, the Swordbearer, the Macebearer, and other civic officials had shortly before taken his place beneath the dome.

It was a splendid movement of sheer colour as the knights, in their blue mantles took up their places in front of the old brown woodwork of the stalls while above them the glowing radiance of Sir William Richmond's mosaics roofed in the picture. In the distance was the old rose silk brocaded canopy that overhung the King and the heavily embroidered vestments of the moving clergy harmonised well with the many colours of the scene.

Nothing was missing to add beauty, dignity, or significance to the occasion. Not only is this true but it is a fact that a deeper and stronger significance than that of anything else encountered yesterday was lent by those knights of the Order of whom it may rightly and earnestly be said that they were conscious by their absence. It is a telling Order, and the old saying is well understood by it—"Laborare est orare." Each in his own place, whether in Embassies in foreign capitals, in Government houses in council-chambers, in poky offices, or even beneath the stifling canvas of a barely-furnished tent, those members of the Order who were not present played a man's part in the ceremony of yesterday in spirit, indeed, that part which really counts for most in this high chivalry of Imperial development. In the very fact of their absence there rang the same stirring challenge to the imaginations and the hearts of all, as when on that darkened afternoon four years ago those of us who stood in silence while the muffled drums echoed in the spaces of St Paul's were yet at that moment following Cecil Rhodes to his last lonely resting-place in the Matoppo Hills. Not entirely unlike, either in significance or impressiveness, was the absence of the working Imperialists yesterday and there can have been no one in the cathedral who did not leave it with an added awe for the splendid and fearful responsibilities which the British Empire may neither shake nor shirk.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.

HINDU CELEBRATION AT JAVERBAUG

A large gathering of Hindu citizens of Bombay assembled at Javerbaug yesterday at 8-30 a.m. to celebrate the 68th birth-day of His Majesty the King-Emperor Edward VII. The premises were decorated with flags bearing loyal inscriptions, and in the meeting hall were hung the portraits of King-Emperor and the Empress Alexandra. Among those present were :—Sir Bhalchandra Krishna, Mr. Tribhowandas Mungaldas, Mr. Virchand Dipchanda, C.I.E., Messrs. P. B. Joshi, Janardhan Gopal, solicitor; Vinayak S. Joshi, J.P., Padmanabh B., Shingne, B.A.,LL.B., Rattonjee R. Desai, B.A., LL.B., Gangadhar Deoji, Rao Bahadur Keshavji N. Sailor, Jadavji Maharaj, Keshavlal R. Bhoota, Kissondas Tribhowandas, Ratilal Kalidas Trivedi B.A., A. G. Joshi, Girjashankar B. Trivedi B.A., Atmaram Pandurang, Parvatee, Anandrao Bhawanrao, Pitamberdas L. Tasokkar B.A., LL.B., Damodardas Virjibhakhandas and others.

On the motion of Mr. Janardhan Gopal, solicitor Mr. Tribhowandas Mungaldas Nathubhai was voted to the chair. Mr. P. B. Joshi, Honorary Secretary of the Birthday Celebration Committee, then opened the proceedings with an suitable speech in the course of which he observed:—We have of late been celebrating two royal birthdays. They are the birthday of our late Empress Victoria the Good, and the birthday of our Gracious Emperor, Edward the Peace-maker. For the past twenty-one years we have celebrated in the orthodox fashion at Madhavbaug and Javerbaug the birthday of the late Empress, and the last such celebration took place on the 24th ultimo in this very hall under the presidency of our worthy citizen Sir Bhalchandra Krishna. And for the last five years we have celebrated the birth-day of our beloved Sovereign at the same places, but on different dates. In the year 1901 we celebrated it on the 9th of November. In the following year it was celebrated on the 30th June, 29th in 1903 on the 20th June, in 1904 on the 9th June, in 1905 on 26th June and this year we are going to celebrate it on the 29th idem. This uncertainly causes us some inconvenience. However our respect and affection for our Sovereign is such that we shall always be prepared to undergo such inconveniences cheerfully. But apart from this inconvenience there is another and more weighty reason why the birthday should not be changed. With us Hindus—and I believe the same is the case with Parsis and Mohamedans—the birthdays of our saints, heroes, add great men must be celebrated at the hour and on the day on which they were born. To substitute any other day for the real one would be considered a great sacrilege. The birthdays of such great and popular Sovereigns as Victoria the Good and Edward the Peace-Maker, are held highly auspicious, and had we had the option we would certainly have preferred the 9th of November for this celebration. The Times journal in India has taken the lead in giving expression to similar views, and let us therefore hope that from the next year we may be able to celebrate the birthday of our beloved Sovereign on the real day on which His Majesty was born as is done in the United Kingdom and in the Colonies. Last year, the King's birthday was a red letter day in the annals of our city for on that auspicious day we had the honour of seeing and welcoming to our stores the beloved son and daughter-in-law of our gracious Sovereign, and if in future we could have the pleasure of welcoming Royalties to our city every 9th of November, we would cheerfully put up with any inconveniences that might arise from His Majesty's birthday being changed from time to time in India."

The President of the gathering Mr Tribhuwandas Mungaldas, then said a few words :—Gentlemen, I thank you most sincerely for asking me to preside on this auspicious occasion. You know why we are all assembled here. This day His Majesty attains his 68th year and we have come to celebrate this grand and auspicious event by "Kirtan" and prayers for the long life and prosperity of the King-Emperor and his beloved consort, Empress Alexandra. Really speaking his Majesty attains his 68th year four months hence. But in India Imperial questions are treated differently, and as the authorities, Home or Indian (I do not know which) wish us to believe that the 29th of June is the most appropriate day for the climax of India to be observed as the King's birth-day, we bow to their wishes and celebrate it to-day. The Royal family have never shown any indifference to the interests of India. Queen Victoria's sympathies and concern for the good of India are well known to every body, and his Majesty has taken the same interest in our welfare and happiness. A few weeks ago H. R. H. the Prince of Wales showed his appreciation of the deep loyalty and attachment of the people of India towards the British throne; and although our sanguine expectations that the Royal visit may prove to be the forerunner of some important rights and privileges to the people of India have been sadly disappointed, nevertheless we are highly obliged to His Royal Highness for the sympathetic speech delivered by him at the Guildhall dinner. While our brethren of the coast of Bengal are complaining at the top of their voices of the harsh and unconstitutional acts of their rulers, we in the Bombay Presidency feel quite happy and contented. We have no complaints to make against our administrators, and we thank his Majesty heartily for his having given us so considerate, sympathetic and far-seeing a ruler as H. E. Lord Lamington. After this Sir Balchandra delivered the following speech :—

After this a Hari-kirtan was performed by Shri Jadhavji Maharaj, which lasted for about three fourths of an hour. Songs specially composed for the occasion were then sung by the boys of the Lady Northcote Orphanage and prayers were offered for the Long Life and Prosperity of Their Majesties the Emperor and Empress of India. Indian sweets (Pendas) were distributed to the whole assembly. A vote of thanks to the President and three cheers for the Emperor and Empress brought the proceedings to an end.

Sir Balchandra Krishna, in the course of an interesting speech, said some people have now come to question the wisdom and utility of such celebrations as these, and asked whether the British public are not likely to be lulled thereby into the false and harmful belief that every thing is gaining on well in India and nothing needs redress. But in my opinion such demonstrations serve to bring home to the British public the existence of this vast dependency which they are likely to forget, awaken them to a sense of their responsibility to the poor and helpless millions that inhabit it, and thus tend to bind the rulers and the ruled in an indissoluble bond of sympathy. Gratitude is a lively sense of thankfulness as much for favours received as for favours to come. In celebrating such occasions as these we do no more than evince our sense of appreciation of, and gratitude for, the blessings already conferred upon us as for those that are in store. An adequate recognition on our part of past benefits cannot but encourage and stimulate the powers that be to further higher efforts on their part to multiply such benefits. It is always in this light that I have taken such celebrations, for good or for evil, and I believe more for good than for evil, our destinies are bound up with those of Britain, and it seems to me to be the decree of Providence that we should work out our salvation under the aegis of British rule. With all its failings and occasional lapses, which it would be idle to ignore, British Rule has been a blessing to India and is always to be regarded in that light. The enjoyment by us of the blessings of Pax Britannica demands an adequate expression of our sentiments of loyalty to the fountain head of those blessings.

MISSIONARY MEETING AT POONA.

More Clergy Wanted.

POONA, JUNE 29.

The Lord Bishop of Bombay presided at a Missionary Meeting held at St. Mary's School this week when the objects of the Pan-Anglican Conference to be held in London in 1908 were set out for discussion. The pronouncement of the Congress Committee deals especially with the evangelising of India and notes the lack of a native episupate in the Indian Church.

The Bishop, in the course of a brief but impressive address, suggested that a larger number of clergy was needed to carry out their work in India that it was necessary to make the church in India directly responsible for missionary work, to bring about the reunion of all bodies not in communion with the church, and to take up more thoroughly the work of evangelising Mahomedans and higher classe of Hindus. His Lordship deplored the decline of candidates for Holy Orders. After making some further observations, the meeting ended.

ELLEN TERRY.

Jubilee Commemoration.

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT DRURY LANE.

LONDON, JUNE 15.

THERE was one moment in the long and varied programme presented in honour of Miss Ellen Terry on Tuesday afternoon at Drury Lane, when the audience seemed, as by a flash, to recognise the rare personality of the lady to whom they were paying honour. As everyone knows, there is only one Beatrice and her name is Ellen Terry. The motto which Beatrice gives to herself in conversation with Don Pedro, when he tells her she was "born in a merry hour," is one so precisely appropriate to the actress, whose most successful impersonation Beatrice is, that she has adopted it by titular right as her own. "No sure," she says, my mother cried, but then there was a star danced, and under that was I born." Once more Miss Ellen Terry was Beatrice; once more Don Pedro challenged her concerning her mercurial spirits and her unfailing mirth once more, with a look towards the audience she made happy reference to the constellation that presided over her nativity. And the house rose at once. They cheered her to the echo, just as they cheered her later when in a ceremonial reception scene Lady Bancroft greeted her in the name of the company assembled to do her honour, and she made a flattering, warm-hearted and generous reply. It was Beatrice the people had come to do honour to. It was Beatrice who in the short scene taken from the Shakespearian play, acted with no little of her wanted charm and grace—Beatrice the laughing and the wilful, who sends her shafts of irony broadcast, and yet, for all her friends, and even for Benedick, possesses a heart of gold. That the actress should choose this before all other parts to play on the occasion of her jubilee was entirely natural, and abundantly justified. She acted it with a beautiful and serious tenderness which enchanted all hearts.

What is to be said of the wonderful programme which had been arranged by the theatrical and musical professions as a tribute to Miss Terry? It would be difficult to exhaust the adjectives of praise suitable to the occasion. First—and it is no small merit—there was a marvellous punctuality in all the various incidents, such as surprised those who had some experience of matinees of this order. It began punctually with Mr. Glover's overture, it went on punctually, and the reception was only half an hour late—a remarkable proof of the organisation and skill with which every detail had been thought out. Mr. Pinero, Chairman of the Committee, and all the members deserve many congratulations on the extraordinary success, the very largely to them, that each piece in the lengthy programme had been rehearsed with care, and went—every one of them—like a flash of bright and radiant lightning. Many memories crowd on the mind as one reviews the episode of the afternoon. There were the tableaux, for instance, full of sweet colour and graceful charm. Anne Boleyn, The Ladies Waldegrave, a Watteau Subject, Cinderella. The Blessed Damozel, Cleopatra, and many others. Amongst them all, perhaps, those which won and deserved the greatest applause were "The Rival Beauties," in which Miss Constance Collier and Miss Edna May were posed in a scene arranged by Sir L. Alma-Tadema; and the ladies of the Court of James presenting the Orifiamme to Joan of Arc, in which Miss Lilian Braithwaite was La Pucelle and the stage was grouped by Mr. Percy Macquoid. Both Cleopatra and The Blessed Damozel were full of lovely and delicate gradations of colour, but in the latter case the blues were somewhat in shadow, and hardly revealed the faces and the forms of the kneeling angels.

Of equals, take Mr. Gilbert's Trial by Jury, quite one of the most successful items of the programme. As the curtain rose the stage was full of an animated group, composed of artists, well-known literateurs, actors and actresses, while the learned judge was Mr. Rutland Barrington, and the usher was the comical Mr. Walter Passmore. Nothing could have been better than the spirited way in which the dramatic cantata was performed. Mr. Courtice Pounds was the defendant; Miss Ruth Vincent the plaintiff and the bridesmaids brought on the stage all the beauties of the contemporary theatre. It was so good and so lively and so well done, so full of spirit and animation and a certain sense of naturalness—as though in some court of law or other it might be possible, if one where fortunate, to see such excellent fooling—that the only regret was that Trial by Jury came early in the programme, at a time when part of the audience had not yet assembled. Yet, even so, perhaps, we are wrong. For nothing revealed more significantly the extraordinary hold which Miss Ellen Terry has won over the affections of her age than the fact that Drury Lane was packed almost to its utmost capacity, even at half-past twelve, when the programme began. Such a scene has not been often witnessed in the old national theatre. We know that some parts of the audience had been waiting patiently for hours in order to get a chance of being witnesses of a historic scene. When the attendants announced the first item of the programme the extraordinary spectacle of a house fluttering with bright colours packed, eager excite and vociferous proved that the one constant quality of an English public is that it never forgets its established favourites. As a matter of fact, the matinee was peculiarly a great success. Mr. Pinero announced that it had practically contributed six thousand pounds to the Miss Terry Fund, while as much as £15 had been produced by the sale of programmes alone. When it is said that the vendors of the programmes were some of the most beautiful of our actresses, the result is not surprising.

Next in the order comes a well-rehearsed and admirably acted scene from The School for Scandal. Sir Charles Wyndham once more presented that ridiculous laughing, tender-hearted Charles Surface, who has been familiar to us for more years than one cares to count, while Mr. George Alexander, Mr. Bourchier, Mr. Cyril Maude and others not forgetting Mr. Ben Davies with a song, contributed to the riotous jollity of the scene, in which the spendthrift Charles knocks down his ancestor's portraits, but refuses to part with that of his uncle. The most serious and most elaborate item was undoubtedly the first act of Much Ado, in which the scenery had been designed, and the dance arranged by Mr. Gordon Craig, and an animated carcoge of different generations of the Terry family appeared on the stage. Mr. Fred Terry was Don Pedro, Miss Ellen Terry Beatrice, Miss Marion Terry was Hero, while Kate Terry and Minnie Terry played the parts of Margaret and Ursula, the gentlewomen who wait on Hero. Mr. Beerbohm Tree was Benedick, Mr. J. Forbes-Robertson Claudio, Mr. H. B. Irving Don John. Indeed, a wonderful compilation of actors and actresses graced the boards. Mr. Norman Forbes, Mr. Oscar Asche, and Mr. Laurence Irving were all to be seen, as well as Mr Hermann Vezin, Mr Henry Neville, Mr Edmund Gwenn, and many others. Reference has been made before to the Beatrice which once more delighted the eyes of the spectators Miss Ellen Terry was, indeed, the presiding spirit of the occasion, keeping, as it were, everyone in their due order, directing all the dancers, controlling with infinitable grace and vivacity the merry revels at Lequato Padsan house. Nor must we forget a variety of other items—recitations by Mrs Patrick Campbell and Mr Lewis Waller dances by Mlle. Adeline Genee songs by Singer Caruso, Mr Fragson, Miss Eligine Jerris, and Miss Gertie Millar and a wonderful and elaborate entertainment organised Mr. Seymour Hicks, in which Mr. Louis Bradfield, Mr. Harry Fragson, Mr. Arthur Williams, Mr. Willie Elouin, Mr. George Grossmith, jun; and other well-known farcical commedians played their merry parts in a burlesque of a Christy Minstrels show, with infinite gusto. M. Coquelin Aine and M. Jean Coquelin contributed an amusing episode from La Mariage Force, and there was a scene from The Beauty of Bath. Then, when all these events had orderdually drawn to a conclusion, almost exactly at half-past five, came the true denouncement of the affair—the real tribute to Ellen Terry, a sort of formal reception of the stage, in which her fellow-artists gave to in words and presence what they had before shown by their loyal contributions to the programme—the sincere and ungrudging testimony of their admiration and regard.

On the 8th Sir J. Dickson Poynder and others urged the Government to push the policy of British land settlement in South Africa. Mr. Churchill in his reply said that 1 300 persons had been settled in the new colonies since the war, at a cost of £1,800 per settler. The Government would take care that these settlers received considerate treatment under responsible government, but the people of the Orange River Colony might object to the introduction of a year after year of settlers who might outvote them. The question of coolie labour was again brought up by Liberal and Labour members who were dissatisfied with the Government's attitude. On the 11th the proceedings in Committee on the Education Bill were resumed. Mr. Lough moved to postpone Clause 2 till the Government's intentions as to later clauses were announced. This was rejected by 335 to 97. Sir W. Anson's amendment, to compel local authorities to give consent to existing voluntary school as a provided school when the owners so desired, was negatived by 3.3 to 133. On the 12th Mr. Birrell agreed to bring in a new clause allowing voluntary school owners to appeal to the Board of Education when local authorities refused to take over a school-house or the owners refused to accept an offer for its transfer. The discussion and rejection of amendments was then continued. The Government on the 13th moved closure by compartments for the Bill. On the 13th a Government Bill to facilitate the acquisition of cottages and land by Irish labourers was read a second time. The Finance Bill received its third reading, a tariff reform amendment not being pressed.

Mehlokazulu, Sigisanda's chief induna, and 200 rebels were killed and many wounded. So far 575 rebels have been killed.—In the Cape Assembly Mr. Sauer's motion for the amendment of the Customs Convencion was defeated by 49 to 38.—The new Customs tariff has aroused considerable opposition in the Transvaal, and may have a stormy passage through the Legislative Council.

THE UNITED STATES.

King Victor Emmanuel replied with an assurance of his faithful and inviolable friendship.—The new Austrian Premier, Baron von Beck, made a statement of policy in the Reichsrath last week; and the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Hungarian Delegation has received from Count Goluchowski an exhaustive statement on the external relations of the Monarchy.—A violent demonstration was made on Sunday by a Vienna mob against the Hungarian Delegation.

Congo State.—Decrees are published in Brussels authorizing the reforms recommended by the Reform Commission.

France.—A statement of policy was read on Tuesday in the Chambers by Ministers, who said they would maintain and fortify the alliance and friendship so precious to France. Russia.—In conversation with a St. Petersburg Correspondent, a member of the Goremykin Ministry denied that the Duma was analogous to a Parliament. It was, he asserted, a purely revolutionary body. He did not expect an rising but predicted that the storm would blow over.—The Correspondent thinks that another revolutionary outbreak will alone bring the Government to a tardy recognition of the inevitable.—There has been a military mutiny at Poltava involving three regiments. The commanded conceded all the men's demands, and they returned to duty. There is a general recrudescence of agrarian disturbances and strike agitations.

MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

OWING to the present extended formations of Infantry the hearing of words of command has become a great difficulty. To remedy this experiments are being made with megaphones, and, so far as can at present be seen, with considerable success.

FIORILINE!—FOR THE TEETH AND BREATH.—A few drops of the liquid "Fioriline sprinkled on a wet tooth brush produces a pleasant lather, which thoroughly cleanses the teeth from all parasites or impurities, hardens the gums, prevents tartar, stops decay, gives to the teeth a peculiar pearly-whiteness, and a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes all unpleasant odour arising from decayed teeth or tobacco smoke. The Fragrant Fioriline," being composed in parts of Honey and sweet herbs, is delicious to the taste, and the greatest toilet discovery of the age. Of all Chemists and Perfumers. We have [illegible] the usual crop of curiosities as to [illegible] and strange families adopted by birds [illegible] nothing more diverting than a [illegible] exists between a certain ample [illegible] duck of goose-like proportions. CRABBED CRICKET

The difficulties which have arisen in the way of the Australian cricketing authorities are not the first which have been encountered since representatives of the Old Country first went down under. There was one notable occasion during the visit of Shaw and Shrewsbury's team, some four and twenty years ago, when the pick of the Australians refused to take the field so [illegible] match those chosen to do duty for the Colony received an unduly severe beating. That [illegible] have been an echo of the trouble arising out of the Jupiter incident in Lord Harris's tour, when the Australian umpire said no, Murdoch was out and all Australia said he was not. But a disagreement more [illegible] that now threatened was time, which [illegible] England sent two teams in one season, [illegible] by Arthur Shrewsbury and Mr. [illegible] Both sides desired to be considered [illegible] all the talents. Happily towards the [illegible] they amalgamated for a trial of [illegible] against All Australia and won a finely [illegible] game by rather more than six-score runs.

AN ECONOMIC PARADOX

[illegible] politics urge more attention to [illegible] markets for the growers. As a fact, the country district whence the produce comes is too now charged as a market; the consumer during weeks its goods to town, and buys back for his own consumption. The Londoner pays less for his fruit and vegetables than does the man near to whose home they are grown. Every grower has a list of prices as received by retailers at Covent Garden. Lost price an Inspector carriage and [illegible] charges have been paid, but if you buy on the spot where the produce is grown you must pay the same price as if the goods had come up to London and yielded various commissions. The same principle operates in other directions. You cannot buy cheaper fact at Nottingham, cheap- [illegible] Shellfish fish at Grimsby. The writer has paid sixpence a piece for herrings for bait at Clovelly in the height of the herring-fishing season, [illegible] fish dinner is cheap.

[illegible] UNCROWNED KINGS.

With the death of Sir Halliday Macartney, the world loses another of the giants whom Britain supplies for the service of other nations. France drew from England a successful Foreign Minister in M. Waddington; Persia has had a Briton for [illegible] Sanders; Siam a Scot for [illegible] Brooke to distinguish himself [illegible] of the world. Lord Dufferin would be King of Burmese to-day had not dazzling [illegible] for the cause of [illegible] it, [illegible] as the great Sepoy Rani Lena is the power behind the Moroccan throne, and has been a stay in trouble to that unsettled land, even as was Gordon to China and Lord Dundonald to Brazil and Chili. American Presidents must be Americans, but several have been of Scottish descent. And a certain party, not without [illegible] once declared that they would have the late Lord Rosebery for President, Scotsman though he was.

A KING AND NO KING.

But if China has recognised in Sir Halliday Macartney a sage of discretion and sting, she has had [illegible] to acknowledge self-[illegible] a man of far less illumination. The heavenly King, a [illegible] phenomenon [illegible] himself, announced that he was the brother of the Christian Saviour, and as such ordained to be the true lord of China, and thus of all the world. He began life as a groom in Canton, in the service of some American missionary named Rogers. From the latter, and from a Chinese convert, he gained some knowledge of Christianity, and contrived to evolve from it a new religion of his own. His former master he made a marquess, his soldiers he called princes of peace, and to them [illegible] his doctrines at the point of the sword; his personal attendants an bodyguard were all women. The Taiping Rebellion [illegible] and ended his capital Nanking was captured and he had committed suicide, fourteen years after the outbreak of the disorder.

A BLOW FOR REVENGE.

The story comes from Paris that the British Cabinet is to consider whether it can recommend an International agreement for the repression of Anarchism [illegible] Privy Council in the past has not been experience of the ways of the assassin. During the reign of William III. there had been employed on the Continent an unfrocked priest named Goisard, who, [illegible] with his pension of £500, wrote offering his services to Louis XIV. His letters were intercepted, he was arrested, and brought before the Privy Council. Finding that all was discovered, he [illegible] over the shoulder of Robert Harley and [illegible] in the throat. The knife broke off at the hilt, and the bewildered sought by striking [illegible] a second blow, using only the hilt. The wards of the Dukes of Ormonde and Newcastle prevented his doing further damage, and inflicted [illegible] from which he died in prison. Harley lived to become Earl of Oxford.

MANY PARENTS

Two attempts have been made by a contemporary the brass to the source a well-known Law Courts joke. The [illegible] credit Sir Frank Lockwood with the [illegible] Mr. Henry Hawkins [illegible] father. As a fact, the credit seems to have originated with the first Lord Chelmsford, then Frederick Thesiger. Sir Cresswell Cresswell was trying a case in which the name of a vessel was frequently introduced. When mentioned by Serjeant Channell, who was deficient in store of [illegible] the vessel was the Ellen, when alluded to by Thesiger she was the Helen. Stop I said the [illegible] presently I have got on my notes the [illegible] Helen; which is it? In his blandest manner Thesiger replied: Oh, my lud, the vessel was sometimes the Helen, but she lost her h in the choice of the Channell. The joke will be remembered against the learned [illegible] after other records of [illegible] forgotten. The joke makes it worth while to [illegible] the only education he never received was at [illegible] school, on that he raised himself to [illegible] by industry which would be the death [illegible]

THE REAL REASON.

If Serjeant Cresswell's name must be dissociated from [illegible] Channell joke, it is bound up with another as [illegible] memorable as the last joke made in the old Chancery Courts; memorable, too, from the fact that it cropped up on Lockwood's first brief. He had received three guineas for the brief to appear for the opposition to appear for the liquidator in a case in which counsel were fairly [illegible] When Lockwood rose. What brings you there asked Lord Romilly in surprise and [illegible] What, me? replied Lockwood [illegible] recognized for a moment, and the Master of the Rolls went on testily. What do you come back for? The answer, says Mr. Birrell, was [illegible] unexpected and accompanied as it was by [illegible] shaft at the outside of his brief, [illegible] retreat, his memory, triumphant Three and [illegible] my lord!

"WAS SUPPOSED NEVER TO WALK AGAIN." PARALYZED FOR 3 YEARS!
ELECTRIC LIFE
THINK OF IT! 3 years in bed, unable to move; now walks. Miss. Roberts' letter tells the whole story:—
7, Contractors' Buildings, Clare Road, Byculla, Bombay, 7th September, 1905.
Dr. A. T. Sanden.
Sir,
This is a true and candid statement which I wish to be made known to the Public at large about your Herculex.
I was paralysed for a period of three years and unable to leave my bed; I had the advice of many experienced Doctors, but of no avail; and they all gave me the same reply that I would never walk; and I also tried many drugs. At last I gave up all hopes of ever walking again, when I saw an Advertisement in the "Times of India" concerning your Herculex and its wonderful cure, so I made up my mind to see you personally about my sickness.
After seeing you, my hope revived a little, but I still had a doubt, until I bought the Herculex and were it; to my surprise and joy, I was able to walk about the house by holding to things as I passed them after two months' use I was able to go for a chaire and back with the help of my daughter, aged fourteen, and up-to-date I am doing remarkably well and hope soon to be perfectly well, though you did not expect to find a change before the end of six months.
I am, indeed, thankful to you for your care and kind attention, and to Herculex Belt is a wonderful cure, which I hope will benefit many more sufferers same as I was.
Yours faithfully,
(Sd.) B. ROBERTS.
This needs no comment. Judge for yourself. For cures like this I will pay you to investigate my system of treatment. All consultations are free. If you are unable to call, write for my latest works on electrical treatment, which will be mailed you free on receipt of your name and address.

A SOLVED QUESTION.

THE QUESTION now-a-days among Smokers is, Why should Vafiadis' Cigarettes be a largely distributed?

The answer is not far to seek.

It is because Vafiadis having had a life-long experience in Tobacco knows what is suitable for this peculiar climate of India, and it also is because their only intention is to satisfy their thousands of Customers by guaranteeing a new consignment of their Cigarettes every fourteen days.

To the above facts it is due that their Cigarettes are so highly praised and smoked by the throng, and are pronounced by connoisseurs to be superior to all others.

THREE DISTINCTIVE CHARACTERISTICS

MELLIN'S FOOD

It is easily digestible and very assimilable and nourishing. It is readily soluble and may be prepared in a few seconds. It is free from husks and indigestible matter, which would cause irritation.

The importance of these properties is seen when it is remembered that the digestive organs are simpler, and the necessity for readily available food greater in an infant than in an adult. By the use of MELLIN'S FOOD, and the exercise of proper care, those diseases which make such fearful havoc among infants—diarrhœa, convulsions, and the various wasting diseases, consequent upon bad digestion—have been largely decreased.

MELLIN'S FOOD is confidently offered to Invalids as they can obtained of all dealers throughout India.

BENEDICTINE

Possessing most Powerful Germ-killing Properties.

The BENEDICTINE liqueur is beneficial to health owing to its spirituous foundation being composed only of eau-de-vie (brandies) of the very purest quality.

Its principal characteristics may be summed up as follows:—

Distinctness of taste, richness of flavour and a delicious bouquet improving with age.

Moreover, the fact has never been disputed, that when diluted with cold water, the liqueur is possessed of great ANTIAPOPLECTIC (against apoplexy, sudden loss of sense and voluntary motions), APERIENT (slow purgative), DIGESTIVE and ANTISPASMODIC (against convulsive) qualities). REFRESHES and STRENGTHENS the nervous and tired brain marvellously, and works as a patient boon to invalids and a blessing combined with luxury to mankind.

Many celebrated doctors and literary men both in France and other countries have given the liqueur the brilliant testimony of their appreciation, as may be seen by the following letters:—

* * * Those of my readers who have confidence in my culinary recommendations, and I trust they are many, will do well to note that I prefer BENEDICTINE to other liqueurs.

ALEXANDER DUMAS.

* * * I can, when the occasion presents itself, strongly recommend BENEDICTINE as the finest liqueur and I do not hesitate to recommend it to my friends. It is at the guests of honour, now to be seen in every house. It is found fault with, called elate by everybody in private families, as well as by tables of princes.

H. DE PENE.

* * * We place BENEDICTINE upon examination for its excellent flavour and delicate perfume, at the head of liqueurs that are at once a powerful specific and a delicious beverage, and recommend it to all those who suffer from indigestion, for promoting digestion and the regular circulation of the blood.

TIMOTHEE TRÉLAT.

LIQUEUR BENEDICTINE.—Among the liqueurs invented by man, there is one which, by its stomachic properties, deserves the name of wholesome, and which accompanies the dessert with dignity. It is not only an agreeable and lively beverage for persons in good health, such as diners or supper-parties, but it is also a beneficial, if not indispensable, tonic for invalids and convalescents. Many physicians, even, so recommend it.

This liqueur, which is made from aromatic herbs, has, in addition to its taste, an odour which is at once agreeable and refined, and it is quite natural that the liqueur should bear the name of its inventor.

Extract from the Gazette de Malte.

Affectionately we know of nothing more agreeable than a small glass or two of BENEDICTINE. It perfumes the breath, delights the palate, promotes digestion, and is a powerful aid to an inactive or over-taxed stomach. During an epidemic, and for combating the evil effects of an impure atmosphere, its curative action is indisputable. At the beginning of last autumn, we had occasion to appreciate the full value of this liqueur, and we are now happy to give our highest praise.

DR. MALLET, M.D.

We place all our confidence in the hygienic properties of BENEDICTINE. Invalids and those who suffer from diseases of the respiratory organs, affections of the mouth, headaches, congestion of brain, etc., and who cannot take other liquors, can easily make BENEDICTINE their favourite drink, as a tisane to their meals.

DR. ACHILLE PEQUEUR, M.D.
